Change Your Clock Sunday!

DAYLIGHT saving time ends officially at 2 a. m. Sunday, but you don't have to wait up until that hour to turn back the clock, as Mrs. Uril Shannon demonstrates here in a "timely" reminder not to forget to lop off an hour.

East Liverpool and virtually all communities of the tri-state district turned their clocks ahead an hour last April to the fast summer time. Residents will regain that lost hour of sleep Sunday when eastern standard time returns.

The fast time was adopted by council ordinance in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Midland, Lisbon, Salem, East Palestine and some other communities. This legislation expires automatically at the witching hour of 2 a. m. tomorrow.

The majority of radio programs will come on at the same time, as the networks also went to fast time for the summer.

Railroad, bus and airplane schedules followed standard time. They will "jibe" with East Liverpool time from Sunday on.

Incidentally, the tall clock that Mrs. Shannon had to mount a ladder to reach is a time-tested veteran itself — 200 years in fact.

The valuable collector's item was purchased over 30 years ago at an auction. Besides telling the hour and minute, it also gives the day, the month and the lunar phases!

GREEK THRONGS WELCOME KING

Tumultuous Greeting Given To Monarch In Athens

By The Associated Press.

ATHENS, Sept. 28—Hundreds of thousands of cheering Greeks lined the streets of Athens today in a tumultuous welcome to King George II of the Hellenes, returning to his throne after five years of wartime exile.

Fighters and bombers roared overhead as the royal party made its triumphal entry into the capital, which was bathed in brilliant sunlight. The solemn monarch rode in an open car.

The twice-exiled king, who arrived last night from England, landed at the quay at Faleron Bay at 10 a. m. A slow, four-mile procession took him past the masses in the heart of the city to the magnificent Greek cathedral, where Archbishop Damaskinos, now relinquishing his duties as regent, conducted a solemn Te Deum service.

Attending the service were members of the dominant royalist party's opposition, including former Premiers George Papandreou, Panaylotis Kanellopoulos and Sophocles Venizelos.

The thousands of police and gendarmes who guarded the monarch's route had difficulty restraining the crowds, particularly in historic Constitution Square, just in front of the parliament building and facing the unknown soldier's tomb. The square was so jammed that it was impossible to move.

FAMED PILOT KILLED WHEN JET BLOWS UP

By The Associated Press.

ALL-HALLOWS-ON-THE-SEA, England, Sept. 28—Police, troops and German prisoners of war searched the desolate salt flats around the mouth of the Thams today in the faint hope that Test Pilot Goeffrey De Haviland might have parachuted to safety when his jet plane exploded yesterday on a test flight.

The 37-year-old flier, scion of a famous aviation family and known as England's No. 1 test pilot, is presumed dead following the explosion 10,000 feet above the Thames of his tail-less experimental Swallow, as speculation arose that the accident may have been the first supersonic speed blast in history.

TALKS PRESSED FOR SHIP PEACE

Conciliators Drive To Beat Monday Strike Deadline

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Government conciliators, determined to avoid another maritime tie-up, went to work today against a Monday midnight deadline.

Unions representing deck and engineroom officers on most merchant marine vessels have voted to walk out then unless they obtain new contracts.

Reluctance of some principals to attend seriously has delayed the conciliation sessions arranged by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Because of the late start, Edgar L. Warren, the Labor Department's conciliation service chief, told reporters he intends to keep the conferences going to late hours steadily through the week end striving for agreements.

The negotiations involve the 30 per cent wage demand of the A. F. of L. Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the 35 per cent pay raise asked by the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

Should a strike by either or both of the unions occur, another complete tie-up of all American shipping is in prospect.

Another Monday strike threat was made by Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen, now engaging in separate contract talks at San Francesco for a demanded 33-cent hourly wage increase. A strike by Mr. Bridges' union would paralyze only West coast shipping.

OFFICIAL FEARS MEAT SCARCITY FOR SOME TIME

Board Head Doesn't Expect Appeal For Removal Of Ceilings At Present

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Chairman Roy L. Thompson said today the price de-control board will "act promptly" if it gets an official appeal for removal of meat ceilings—but he doesn't expect one before November.

He gave no indication of what the board's decision might be, saying he does not believe it "proper" that he make any predictions.

As for the current meat shortage, Mr. Thompson predicted it will continue for "some time".

Cattlemen Disagree

The de-control chief expressed these views to an interviewer as:

1.—Some western cattlemen disagreed with President Truman's forecast that the normal fall run of grass-fed cattle should increase the supply of beef soon.

2.—Government food officials said that if the military's meat requisitioning is continued at the new reduced rate the rest of this year, the armed services will get no more than perhaps 3.5 per cent of the total output.

The War Department yesterday ordered a reduction of three million pounds a week in the Army's meat purchases because of the current shortage.

3.—The OPA, yielding to a torrent of industry protest, announced it will scrap its order restoring June 30 price ceilings on restaurant meat meals. Higher ceilings will be set next week.

Explains Board's Decision

While Mr. Thompson declined to make any flat predictions on what the de-control board may decide if it receives a formal petition for removal of meat ceilings, he did say:

"If we had to do the same job again, and if we had to make our decision on the basis of the same set of circumstances we had before us on Aug. 20, under the law we would have to make the same decision again.

"The criteria Congress set up for us would permit no other decision."

It was on Aug. 20 that the board restored ceilings on meat. It ruled that prices had jumped unreasonably since controls lapsed July 1, that meat was scarce and that ceilings were enforceable in the public interest.

These are the yardsticks set forth by Congress.

In predicting meat supplies will remain skimpy for a while, Mr. Thompson said it "will take some time" for chops and steaks to reach housewives after the run of livestock to market finally gets under way.

He said he is in agreement with President Truman that present scarcity is due to the heavy slaughter of cattle and hogs during July and August when controls were off.

The board chairman said it will be at least November, and perhaps December, before packers' petitions for de-control, now being prepared, could reach the three-man high court.

The petitions go first to the Agriculture Department, which will follow a time schedule set up by Congress in considering them.

"If, and when, we get a petition," Mr. Thompson said, "we will act promptly on it. We are going to do our best to keep from holding up anyone."

Mr. Thompson added that he wishes he could clear up "what seems to be a general impression" that the board can take the initative on de-control of meat.

He said he has been writing letters to "10 or 15" congressmen a day who are under that impression, even though the board was created by Congress.

"We only can act on an industry appeal from an Agriculture Department refusal to take off controls," he declared.

DEADLINE FOR DRIVER LICENSES IS MONDAY

Mr. Clendenning's office will be open tonight until 8 for the convenience of last-minute applicants. The office of the motor club will close at the usual hour of 5:30 tonight, but will remain open until 8 on Monday night.

U. S. PLAN HITS YUGOSLAVS FOR SNUBBING PACT

Peace Unit Adopts Proposal That Keeps Privileges From Non-Signers

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 28—A peace conference commission today adopted an American proposal to bar Yugoslavia from the privileges of a signatory to the Italian treaty if she persists in her announced refusal to sign the pact.

The Italian political and territorial commission adopted the "French line" as the boundary between Italy and Yugoslavia and Marshal Tito's delegation promptly announced Yugoslavia would "not sign the peace treaty with Italy or withdraw her army from northwestern Istria".

Yugoslav Plan Rejected

A Yugoslav proposal to turn the whole boundary question back to the foreign ministers was voted down and the United States quickly proposed the new amendment, stating that the terms of the treaty should "not benefit any state mentioned in the preamble as Allied and associated powers unless such state becomes a signatory of the treaty".

A Yugoslav delegate vigorously attacked the American proposal as "a threat and an attempt to intimidate Yugoslavia".

"Yugoslavia has shown by its four years of fighting it will not yield to any intimidation," the delegate said.

The formal Yugoslav declaration followed a sharp debate between U. S. Sen. Tom Connally and Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, with the latter supporting a Yugoslav demand that any preliminary agreement of the foreign ministers' council regarding the boundary should be approved by Yugoslavia.

'Doesn't Frighten Anymore'

Sen. Connally said the Yugoslav threat not to make peace with Italy unless her demands were met "doesn't make anyone tremble in his boots".

"Yugoslavia's attitude doesn't frighten anyone," the Texan said.

Yugoslavia's formal statement, read to the commission by Vice-Premier Edvard Kardelj, charged that the commission "wants to impose its will upon the Yugoslav people and prevent the liberation from the yoke of Italy of a considerable portion of the Slovene and Croat people".

Vice-Premier Kardelj's proposal to send the boundary question back to the four-power foreign ministers' council was defeated before three articles of the Italian treaty draft fixing the frontiers were adopted.

13 CARS GIVEN TICKET AS VIOLATIONS SPURT

2 Tagged For Overstaying One-Hour Limit Friday

Thirteen motorists were tagged Friday in the police parking campaign—eight for overstaying the one-hour limit and five for stopping in prohibited zones.

Three of the drivers had paid the customary $2 fine by mid-morning, but the remaining 10 had not appeared. Yesterday's citations raised to 366 the number of tickets issued since the drive opened June 13.

Fines were paid by Mike Pusateri of St. Clair Ave., Gail Beagle of Elm St., and Edward Millward of Pleasant Heights, police said.

Other tickets were issued to: Ed Dougherty, R. D. 1, Wellsville; Edwin A. Smith, 818 Chester Ave.; W. J. Miller, 739 Chester Ave.; George A. McHenry, R. D. 1; John J. Tobin Sr of Youngstown; cars with Ohio licenses L-139-G, YW-566 and T-912-D, an auto with New York plate 8-M-5601, and a car with Pennsylvania tag R-63-KE, police said.

By The Associated Press.

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 28 — Three Hammond Technical High School youths were killed early today by a Nickel Plate freight train at Black Oak, a community between Hammond and Gary, as they attempted to escape the wheels of the oncoming locomotive.

The dead are Melvin Altgilbers, 16, of Black Oak; Charles Chick, 16, and James Walker, 15, both of Hammond.

A fourth youth, James August Blair, 16, of Hammond managed to get off the tracks and ran two miles to his home where his mother notified police.

Effective Control Over Atomic Energy Termed Possible By Scientists Of UN

By The Associated Press.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Sept. 28—Scientists of the United Nations atomic energy commission declared today that effective control of atomic energy, which the world is seeking to harness for peace, is possible on the basis of available scientific facts.

The finding was made public when the United Nations released a 22-page report adopted unanimously Thursday by the scientists who make up the commission's scientific and technical committee. The report will be submitted to the commission's Committee No. 2 (political) at a meeting here next Wednesday.

"With regard to the question posed by Committee No. 2, 'Whether effective control of atomic energy is possible!' We do not find any basis in the available scientific facts for supposing that effective control is not technologically feasible," the report said.

Having thus discharged the task assigned by the political group, the scientists added:

"Whether or not it is politically feasible is not discussed or implied in this report, nor is there any recommendation of the particular system or systems by which effective control can be achieved."

The report is the first international finding on atomic energy to be approved unanimously and was hailed by Bernard M. Baruch, United States member of the commission, as a "forward motion" in the commission's deliberations.

The scientists, by failing to make recommendations, however, did little to resolve the sharp differences between the United States and Russian plans for cortrolling atomic energy. At present, the United States and Russia still are far apart on the problem of the veto right as applied to atomic control, on methods of inspection and control and on just when existing stocks of atomic bombs will be destroyed and their manufacturing stopped.

Those, and others of serious nature, are questions which the atomic energy commission itself must handle.

At the Wednesday meeting, committee No. 2, which is in effect a committee of the whole of the commission, likely will outline its future work. It has been stalled while the scientists considered their assignment during 18 meetings in August and while waiting for Russia to give an answer on the report.

In the report, the scientific and technical committee said:

"The substances uranium and thorium play a unique role in the domain of atomic energy, since as far as we know these are the only raw materials from which the nuclear fuel required for the development of atomic energy can be obtained.

"There is an intimate relation between the activities required for peaceful purposes and those leading to the production of atomic weapons. Most of the stages which are needed for the former also are needed for the latter.

"With respect to mining operations, which are of special significance as the first step in these activities, it appears doubtful that safeguards are not too difficult," the committee said.

"Particular attention should be paid to the installations in which concentrated nuclear fuel is produced since the product lends itself immediately to the production of bombs. Unless appropriate safeguards are taken at each of these stages, it will be difficult to insure that no diversion of material or installations will take place."

The report was made up of six chapers. The scientists, who ac-

ARMISTICE ENDS DEMOCRAT FIGHT

Wallace, Pepper Will Make Speeches For Party

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 — The Democratic national committee has achieved at least a pre-election armistice with Henry A. Wallace and Sen. Pepper of Florida, the party's severest critics of administration foreign policy.

First, the committee announced it will handle arrangements for their campaign speeches on behalf of the ticket in the November election.

Then Rep. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, chairman of the committee's speakers' bureau, predicted President Truman will run in 1948 and that both Mr. Wallace and Sen. Pepper will support him.

Just one week ago Rep. Sparkman, referring to Mr. Wallace and Sen. Pepper, had told a reporter: "We don't want to send out anyone as a speaker who is going to call Secretary Byrnes a reactionary or say he is all wet or anyone who is going to urge independent voters to stay home."

But last night Chairman Robert E. Hannegan of the national committee and Rep. Sparkman announced jointly that they had discussed the campaign with Sen. Pepper and that he will speak in support of Democratic nominees in various parts of the country.

Mr. Hannegan had said Thursday that the committee would invite Mr. Wallace to address Democratic groups who wanted to hear him.

Rep. Sparkman's declaration that he believes President Truman will seek re-election came later during a radio interview:

"What about a Wallace-Pepper ticket?" he was asked.

"They have both said they are against a third party," Rep. Sparkman answered. "I expect both of them to be backing the Democratic nominee."

Asked whether the party had suffered great harm from the Wallace-Pepper blasts against administration foreign policy which led to Mr. Wallace's dismissal from the cabinet, Rep. Sparkman replied:

"I would rather that it had not happened, but I don't think it did the party great harm."

FRANKIE FRISCH QUITS AS PIRATES' MANAGER

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28 — Ray Kennedy, general manager of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, announced today that Frankie Frisch has resigned as Pirate manager, effective immediately. Kennedy said Coach Virgil (Spud) Davis will take over until the end of the season.

Kennedy said he was informed of the resignation in a telephone call from Frank E. McKinney, new Pirate president, who is in Indianapolis.

He said McKinney reported Frisch had tendered the resignation after a "very friendly and very amicable" telephone conversation. Frisch is in Cincinnati with the seventh-place Pirates.

Kennedy asserted McKinney and Frisch agreed "the club needs a change of faces all down the line, a complete makeover".

Frisch took over as Pirate pilot in 1940.

Two Aids Guide UMW When Operation Bars Lewis From Meetings

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Two mild-mannered men who have been at John L. Lewis' elbow for the last quarter of a century took over leadership of the United Mine Workers today while he recovers from an operation.

Their first job is to run the UMW's 39th convention, which will begin Tuesday in Atlantic City. Mr. Lewis was ready to leave for there when stricken with appendicitis.

His operation in a Washington hospital yesterday made it almost certain he will miss his first miners' convention since 1912, although his doctor said he came through in "excellent condition".

Vice-President John O'Leary, a big, slow-moving fellow, and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy, a ruddy, cigar-chewing onetime socialite who served four years as lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, moved into the driver's seat.

One or both of these Pennsylvanians even might have to represent Mr. Lewis at the A. F. of L. convention in Chicago, beginning Oct. 7. The miners' meeting will run through next week, and the A. F. of L.'s conclave will wind up between Oct. 17 and 20.

Unless the 66-year-old UMW president has a remarkably quick recovery, he will be denied the triumphal appearance at the A. F. of L. convention which seemed to be in store for him.

Mr. Lewis returned with 600,000 members to the A. F. of L. fold last winter. This would have been the first opportunity of the federation members to welcome the prodigal home after a ten-year absence with the CIO and as an independent.

OPA WILL AUTHORIZE RESTAURANT BOOSTS

Agency Reverses Policy In Announcing Decision

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 — Reversing a previous policy, the OPA Friday announced it will allow increases in restaurant ceiling prices on meals and individual items having meat as the base.

The price agency announced that it will issue new ceilings for the meat dishes early next week. Until then restaurants will be required to observe their June 30 ceilings.

The OPA's previous order to roll back the prices to the former June 30 levels brought a storm of protests throughout the nation. Many restaurants and hotels said they would be forced to shutdown.

The OPA said the new ceilings will include the former June 30 maximums plus increases that are being computed.

IRED MOB HANGS THREE IN BOLIVIA

Would-Be Assassin Of New President Among Victims

By The Associated Press.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 28—Three military men, one a would-be assasin of Bolivia's new president, were hanged by an angry mob here yesterday in the first big outbreak of violence since the July 21 revolution.

A howling crowd estimated at 80,000 threw ropes over lampposts in the city plaza and strung up Louis Obitas Bustamente, former lieutenant, and two majors, Jose Escobar and Jorge Eguino, La Paz police chiefs before President Gaulberto Villarroel was deposed and hanged last summer.

The lynchers took Obitas Bustamente from police near the office of President Monje Gutierrez, where he had clubbed an aid with a pistol butt and threatened to shoot the president.

They broke into the city jail to seize the majors, who were charged with criminality under Villarroel and were awaiting trial. Escobar was unconscious when hanged. Eguino tried to speak to the crowd. The rope broke with him and he was dispatched with two bullets.

Oblitas Bustamente, witnesses said, knocked down Presidential Attache Mario Pinedo with his pistol, opened the president's office door and saw Monje Gutierrez talking with Public Works Minister Carlos Munoz.

"I am going to be president," they heard him say.

"I am here by the will of the people," said the president, and opened his coat. "You will have to kill me first. Shoot and you can sit in that chair. Shoot!"

NEW PAY TALKS PLANNED TODAY BY UNION, FIRM

Duquesne Workers Ignore Warning On Tie-Up By Central Labor Unit

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28—Operation of Pittsburgh's streetcars was halted completely early this morning for the second time within 48 hours as a result of picketing by members of a striking power union.

Headquarters of the A. F. of L. Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees said efforts to operate the cars, which had maintained partial service through the early hours of the night, were abandoned after pickets surrounded all 12 car barns of the Pittsburgh Railways Co.

A spokesman for the union said a mass meeting of all members has been called today at which the union will be asked to decide whether to pass through the picket lines of the Independent Association of Employees of the Duquesne Light Co.

Warning Was Ignored

Members of the independent union in picketing the barns, disregarded a warning issued last evening by the A. F. of L. Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, which said it would "not tolerate any interference" with streetcars and busses operated by members of its affiliates.

Meanwhile, another session of the apparently stalemated wage contract negotiations between the struck Duquesne Light Co. and the independent union of its employees was scheduled for this afternoon, with a mass meeting of the union called for 8:30 p. m. to vote on "any offer the company may make".

The power union has given no reason for halting the streetcars, but apparently it acted from one of two reasons, possibly both: (1) Current for the cars is supplied by the Duquesne Light Co. and (2) both the Duquesne Light and Pittsburgh Railways Co. are subsidiaries of the Philadelphia company.

Protection Not Asked

A spokesman for the railways company said police protection has not been asked. He said the A. F. of L. motormen made no effort to cross the independent union's picket lines and that operators, when asked why they had left their cars, said:

"We don't want to get hurt."

The spokesman added motormen in all cases drove the cars into the barns before abandoning them.

The Central Labor Union, with a membership of 175,000, which had supported the Duquesne Light workers in their battle against an antistrike injunction, issued a statement saying: "We now serve notice on them (the strikers) that the A. F. of L. will not tolerate any interference by them with any companies using power with which we have agreements."

AUSTRALIA'S VOTERS RETURN LABOR PARTY

Chifley Appears Certain Of Being Kept In Office

By The Associated Press.

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 28—Early tabulation in Australia's general election indicates that Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley's Labor party will be returned to power.

There is no clear sign that any Labor member of parliament has been unseated. The opposition, composed of the Liberal and Country parties, needed to win 13 seats held by Labor in order to control the House of Representatives.

Both Premier Chifley and Herbert V. Evatt, external affairs minister, appear certain to retain their seats.

Both the Sydney Sunday Sun and the Sunday Telegraph declared after a little more than two hours of vote counting that the Labor government has been re-elected.

The Sun said that the Chifley government "has received a clear vote of confidence". The Telegraph reported that there is a "clear indication that the government will be returned with no loss of seats and with the possibility of increasing its majority". Both papers are classified as independent politically.

FIERCE FIGHTING RAGES ON PICKET LINES AT STUDIO

Police Battle 30 Minutes To Halt Melee; 23 Strikers Put Under Arrest

By The Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28—Fierce fighting broke out late yesterday at the gates of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio as workers entering the lot for the late shift attempted to run a massed line of pickets.

Nearly 200 persons engaged in the melee, which Culver City police required nearly a half-hour to quell.

Pickets smashed windows of automobiles, yanked open car hoods to jerk out ignition wires and tried unsuccessfully to overturn six of 15 cars running the line.

One picket was hurled to the top of a car. He later disappeared inside studio gates. Another was knocked down by a car and removed to a hospital. A non-striker was hospitalized for a cut hand from flying glass.

It was the most serious clash of a day marked by rock throwing and other violence—with 23 pickets arrested by nightfall—as the 7,000-member Conference of Studio Unions conducted the second day of what it calls a lockout, but what producers label a strike.

An affidavit from Actress Greta Gransedt asserted she was roughly handled and hit on the cheek as she attempted to cross a line.

Sheriff Eugene Bascailuz, meanwhile, proclaimed a state of emergency throughout Los Angeles county and announced that beginning today "employment of 125 additional deputies is necessary for the preservation of the peace and preservation of life and property".

Studios involved are located in county territory as well as in Los Angeles, Burbank and Culver City.

Arrests were made for a variety of offenses, including rioting, assault, brick throwing, scattering tacks in a studio driveway and throwing coffee in the faces of non-strikers. Meanwhile, thousands of employees went through the lines.

A policeman fired a shot over the head of a 20-year-old youth tossing bricks, then quoted the latter as saying: "I don't belong to any union. I just came to get in the fight."

The picket line at Warners took a cut in the afternoon, however, as sheriff's deputies and Burbank police served notice on all but eight to disperse in keeping with a superior court injunction order.

The CSU and another A. F. of L. group, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, are at odds for the third time in 18 months over whose carpenters shall build film sets.

Actors, whose guild is A. F. of L., but unaffiliated with either the CSU or the IATSE, have scheduled a mass meeting for Wednesday night, but so far President Robert Montgomery and other leaders have declined to support the CSU.

Sightless Vet Speaks At Lions Luncheon On Conquering Handicap

A blind person's everyday life and recreation were described to Lions Club members Friday noon by Ted Pethel of Market St., who lost his sight last year while in service.

He described methods of reading and writing Braille, adding a sightless person can use a conventional typewriter if he learns the "touch" system.

"I enjoy going to the movies, even though I have to piece the action together by listening to the dialogue," he said. "I enjoyed the East Liverpool-Toronto football game by listening to the public address system."

"Blind persons can enjoy a number of sports and hobbies," Mr. Pethel said. "They can play golf, swim, ride horses, go boating and fish," he explained. "Hobbies like leather and wood working and basket and rug weaving produce profit as well as enjoyment."

Mr. Pethel told how he finds his way through the business district, guided by a cane. "I can judge my approximate location by estimating the distance I have walked," he said. "And every store has a familiar odor that helps guide me. A shoe store, for instance, has the smell of leather and a restaurant smells of cooking food. Taverns are easy to spot—they have an 'alcoholic breath'."

He was introduced by Yee Pon, program chairman.

WORKERS FOR J. & H. TO SHARE $4,200,000

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28—A distribution of about $4,200,000 from the employees, profit-sharing fund will be made to "associates" (employees) of Jack & Heintz, Inc., President William S. Jack announced Friday.

The distribution, which will amount to between $600 and $700 for each of the 7,500 employees who were on the company's payrolls during its fiscal year 1944, will be sent by check early in December, Mr. Jack said.

The fund was accumulated by the company by allocating from company earnings an amount equivalent to 12½ per cent of an associate's earnings.

WARSAW CLAIMS NEW 'PIED PIPER'

Rat Charmer, 74, Cautious About 'Trade Secrets'

By The Associated Press.

WARSAW, Poland—The newspaper Dziennik Ludowy revealed the existence of a modern Pied Piper in what is termed "a peculiar and unusual procession in Warsaw."

It is said a 74-year-old gypsy, Joseph Bek, who escaped death in a German concentration camp because of his skill in "charming" rats, walked down Panska St. playing a flute with two boys beating drums.

The newspaper added:

"Several hundred rats followed them to a truck with a board leading to it nearby. The players mounted the truck and after a slight hesitation, the rats followed them. When the rats were all in, the truck was quickly closed and a special top clamped on it."

The journal said Bek earned his living by making purses, cigarette cases and similar objects with the skins of rats, adding, "the old man is very mysterious and does not want to give his address nor details about his art. He only says that rats are easily hypnotized by music and that one must discover the tones that effect them most."

Bek should have plenty of work in Warsaw. It's estimated there's about 2,000,000 rats in the ruins of this city, and some of them "are as big as rabbits." They got that way feeding for more than a year upon human corpses under the debris.

FARM CONSERVATION WORK HALF FINISHED

Special To The Review.

LISBON, Sept. 28 — Clifford F. Shaw, chairman of the Columbiana county agricultural conservation committee, said today a recent check of performance shows Columbiana county farmers have completed about 50 per cent of the conservation projects that the committee approved, and that the remainder of the work should be accomplished in the near future.

About 80 per cent of the farmers received approval of some type of assistance under the agricultural conservation program through the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which allocated $100,170 for this work in the county this year.

Admitting that shortage of materials or inability to employ labor at the proper time may hinder the projects, the committee said it is ready to help farmers who face trouble in carrying out their soil conservation projects. The committee said farmers should advise it if they are unable to complete work and another project could be substituted, or help might be furnished in completing a project. Farmers who will be unable to carry out a project also are asked to notify the committee so that the money can be allocated to others.

The committee suggested that application of limestone and fertilizer can be carried on this Fall, while now also is the time of the year to rebuild drainage areas and grow a permanent grass cover on them, for which the committee will share in the cost. Re-seeding worn-out land and planting new pasture also is an approved practice and such work can be given a good start this Fall, Mr. Shaw said.

LEGAL BATTLE BEGINS IN OHIO SLAYING CASE

By The Associated Press.

BRYAN, O., Sept. 28—Legal battling over the life and liberty of 21-year-old James Robert Engle—admitted slayer of this town's librarian—is scheduled to begin today.

Prosecutor Charles G. Stahl announced he will seek a first-degree murder indictment from a Williams county grand jury.

The youth's father, meantime, engaged two of Bryan's leading lawyers, City Solicitor Gibson L. Fenton and a former county prosecutor, Frederick R. Parker.

The battered body of 30-year-old Emily Abernathy, punctured by 23 knife wounds, was found in the basement the night of Sept. 19. Mr. Stahl said Engle signed a statement that he killed the woman to satisfy a war-born "urge to kill".

Woman Routs Man Buyer With Leg Of Lamb

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28 — An unidentified man seeking to buy meat was routed empty handed from a stall in the Reading Terminal market Friday by a housewife who struck him over the head with a leg of lamb.

The incident, combined with a push of 2,000 persons at the opening hour for three butcher stalls, led Market Supt. C. B. Marsh to call six city policemen and four Reading company officers to maintain order.

The leg of lamb, placed on the counter by a butcher, was the only meat in sight of about 100 customers jammed into a narrow aisle of one booth.

Both the man and woman snatched for the leg. The woman got the firmer grip and after a short struggle had exclusive possession and brought the cut down over the man's head. Other women jeered him. The hapless man gave up and walked out.

CHILLICOTHE, O. — Sproat's drugstore here has been handed down in the Sproat family through five generations, since it was founded in 1814. It began as the first "apothecary shop" west of the Alleghenies when Indians still roamed the Ohio plains.

'Blacked Out'

Flier Has Narro Escap In Jet-Propelled Ship

By The Associated Press.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 28— Lt. Robert M. Hoover stirred uneasily today as he reflected on his narrow escape last night while partially "blacked out" from lack of oxygen, 42,000 feet in the air, in a speeding P-80 jet-propelled Shooting Star fighter plane.

Lt. Hoover was flying from Wright Field, Dayton, to take part in an air exhibition here, when he radioed a distress cry: "My jet turbines are cut out."

From the Beverly control tower, Maj. W. B. Harris of Columbia, S. C., quickly deduced that Lt. Hoover was suffering from lack of oxygen.

"I can't focus my eyes," the flier said feebly.

Maj. Harris advised the distressed pilot to bail out when he came down to 21,000 feet. After a period of silence, Lt. Hoover called back that he was down to 7,500 feet. Then, he said, his engine had started.

It was only a few minutes more before Lt. Hoover's nightmarish experience was over. He landed the plane safely at Westover Field.

Harriman, Successor To Wallace, Knows His Way Around

W. Averelle Harriman, who is taking over the U. S. Department of Commerce, has a record of friendship in both Russia and England. He backed aid to the Soviet even before America entered the war and has a deep admiration for the British people. He has been ambassador to both countries and has been in London "off and on since I was a boy". Heir to a fabulous railroad fortune, he became a leader in his own right in banking and railroad work before he turned to government service in the early days of the Roosevelt regime. His work extended into many phases of business co-operation with federal activities.

NRA PROBLEMS were thrashed out with Grover Whalen when Mr. Harriman headed the New York branch of the administration. Stalin later listened to his views in Moscow.

SOARING COSTS PLAGUE FARMS

Marketing Receipts In Ohio Reported Going Down

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Soaring production costs are beating down the income of Ohio farmers.

Agriculture remains a giant industry in the state, but the Agriculture Department reports that cash receipts from marketing are going down.

Receipts during the first six months of 1946 totaled $289,813,000, as compared with $314,653,000 during the January-June period of 1945—a drop of more than $24,000,000.

The report shows livestock and livestock products receipts fell from $258,144,000 to $220,379,000. Cash for crops, however, increased from $56,509,000 to $69,434,000.

The department sounded a discouraging note for the future on the basis of current costs trends. The report said:

"Production expenses in 1946 and 1947 are likely to continue the upward trend whicch has prevailed since the beginning of the postwar period."

The department added higher labor costs contributed materially to a general increase in production expenses. Other factors are higher feed costs and operation of motorized equipment.

OL' MAN RIVER HELPS DROUGHT-HIT FINDLAY

By The Associated Press.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 28 — This city is "down by the old mill stream" today, seeking some more water.

City officials turned to the Blanchard River—made famous by a native son in a favorite barbershop harmony—to augment the water supply from wells affected by a summer-long drought.

River water is being forced through a hose to a million-gallon well at the Findlay water works plant for chemical treatment before being pumped into main supply lines by a 500-gallon pump.

Blanchard River water, diverted from its harmonious meandering, is keeping water works gauges slightly ahead of demand, but Supt. Otto C. Gohlke appealed to heavy users to conserve their supplies until the emergency ends.

The Findlay water shortage first was felt early this week. Wells and flowing springs at the source of supply, 10 miles east, barely could keep pace with consumers' demands for moisture. This demand has averaged a record of nearly three million gallons daily since June 1.

Earlier this week, dam tenders on the Ohio River disclosed the pool was many feet below normal and resorted to emergency tactics to bring the river stage upward.

knowledged they dealt with nonsecret and previously-published information, said that in approaching the assignment they kept in mind that the problem was not solely what to do about atomic energy as a weapon "but rather the entire problem of what use shall be made of a discovery so great that its consequences will affect the future of human society".

In the chapter of Utilization Of Nuclear Fuels", the report showed that the large-scale production of electric power from atomic energy appears feasible, though the scientists said it still is in the development stage.

"Examples based on published information suggest that raw materials are readily available for the production of from 70 to 3,500 (atomic) bombs a year, or for the generation of electric power at a rate of two million kilowatts and possibly many times this rate," the report added.

SLAUGHTER HITS AT 'FAVORITISM' IN SURPLUS QUIZ

Hobnobbing Sales Agents At WAA Office Denounced During House Probe

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—"Gross favortism" in the disposal of billions in surplus war property was charged yesterday by Chairman Slaughter (D) of Missouri as a House investigating committee heard stories of dual pricing by the War Assets Administration.

Rep. Rizley (R) of Oklahoma declared that "hobnobbing" sales agents "hung around" WAA offices showed "incompetency or worse" by civil service employees.

D. A. Griffin of the Communications Measurement Laboratory, a surplus-selling agent at Plainfield, N. J., told the committee the government surplus agency instructed his company to sell an electronics item for $200, while a competitor—Hallicrafters Corp. of Chicago—got a $50 price on the same item.

Had Desire For 'Cash'

John L. Alheim, WAA official, told the committee that one "hobnobbing" representative of a private company informed him bluntly: "It's up to me to cash in and make all I can while this program is in effect."

The occasion, Mr. Alheim said, was when the Majestic Radio Co. sought to have the government approve a $1,200-a-month salary for Nicholas Rhineholtz in connection with that company's handling of surplus property, to be put down as an expense against the government.

During that time, Mr. Alheim testified, Mr. Rhineholtz came to him and asked if he could not make similar contracts with other private agents selling government surpluses.

Disapproved Salary

Mr. Rhineholtz, Mr. Alheim said, "used to hang around" the Washington surplus property offices hobnobbing with old cronies" whom he had known with the War Production Board and other government agencies.

Mr. Alheim said he disapproved Mr. Rhineholtz's salary and expenses as a charge against the government.

The Transmitter Equipment Manufacutring Co., Inc, held several thousand dollars of government money in an effort to force "a central agency" contract whereby that company could handle larger amounts of surplus, Mr. Alheim said. He added that the company still is holding $17,000 it contends is due on selling commissions.

Stabilization Also Is Psychology

EXPERT advisers are full of wisdom about the means of reaching the elusive goal of stabilization. The community, the area, the nation and the world must manipulate the factors of food supply, productive enterprise, credit, currencies, manpower and natural wealth thus and so—and if they do these things correctly, there will be a condition of balance. At the same time, political factors must be arranged and rearranged to eliminate disturbances, stresses and strains.

But stabilization also is psychology—the way millions of human beings feel about all the other circumstances which affect their daily lives. In the realm of psychology, which is pleasantly vague and therefore inviting to explore, it may be that stabilization in the wake of the war is proceeding more rapidly than can be appreciated by those who keep their gaze fastened on events in diplomacy, economics and domestic and international productivity and exchange.

The fact is that human beings in the mass, having been cruelly shaken up and dislocated by the most devastating war in history, are growing accustomed to their postwar circumstances and, in most cases, making the best of them, bad as they frequently are. In many instances the factors on which experts dwell at such length that they often seem to be laboring the point, are incidental to such neglected influences as the reunion of war-scattered families and community groups, the revival of community enterprise and the gradual accumulation of purpose under conditions of peace.

The emotional repercussions of the war years are becoming less violent as the original explosions recede into time. Populations which had known no routine for years other than the routines of war are getting back into the grooves and ruts of living which can plan ahead to the day after tomorrow. The longing for security which the insecurity of war sharpened is being translated, little details at a time, into whatever security is attainable under conditions of peace.

Meaty Comments

TODAY'S comments on the meat situation will be something to get your teeth into. The best ones will be found on Page One, where the latest and biggest news always is found. This page leans more toward opinion and opinion is pale, bloodless stuff compared with the bright red invective meat eaters, meat administrators, meat packers and meat raisers are exchanging.

Everywhere a person looks, as a matter of fact, it's meat, meat, meat, like the time the barnyard cat jumped into the ensilage cutter. Meat has become the national preoccupation, worthy successor in a series of absorbing interests which have included chain letters, the Townsend plan, Jean Harlow, the New Deal and nylon hose.

It is said in high circles, up close to where they cut off the best steaks, that the November election will turn on whether a rump roast is to be or not to be, and remember a vote for Whoopinpoofit is a vote for flank steak every Thursday. There is meat in them votin' booths, men, but don't shoot the butchers 'til you can see the whites of Paul Porter's eyes. And remember what the unknown poet said, many years ago:

I like good bread, I like good meat,
Or anything that's fit to eat,
But of all poor grub beneath the skies,
The poorest is dried apple pies.

In brief, the meat situation as of this writing is still confused.

Legal Precedent In Pittsburgh

LONG after Pittsburghers have forgotten the electric power strike of 1946 one of the strike's circumstances will be remembered.

The city's legal counsel asked the county Common Pleas Court for a permanent injunction forbidding the strike. The injunction was granted. When the court's command was disobeyed, the president of the union of striking power workers and nine other union leaders were held in contempt of court. The president of the union was sentenced to a year's imprisonment and sent to jail the second day of the strike. Some approved. Some didn't. The ones who didn't approve prevailed.

On the third day of the strike, the same court dissolved the injunction and dropped the contempt charge against the 10 union leaders. The slate was wiped clean. The union president was let out of jail—and all this was done on the request of the city's legal counsel, who said it was a move to settle the walkout.

The fight over the use of injuctions in labor disputes has raged in this country for half a century. During that time the pendulum has swung from the extreme of courts issuing injunctions at the drop of a hat to the other extreme of courts dissolving injunctions on the plea that restraint was angering to the injunction's victims, who had refused to obey it anyway. To members of the legal profession, to labor leaders who have been in the thick of the injunction issue, and to the public which is increasingly convinced there must be clear definition in law of labor's rights and obligations, a milestone of legal precedent has been passed in Pittsburgh.

The Matter Of Nationalization

ONE of the standard arguments of Henry Wallace and his particular brand of New Dealer is that while they believe wholehartedly in the private enterprise system, they also hold that when private enterprise fails the government should step in and take over.

I even have heard businessmen of the Eric Johnston school say the same thing, the assumption being that someone must do the job. The rub is that the government can, if it wishes, make sure that private enterprise will fail by a wage-price formula that produced bankruptcy.

It is a swift method of achieving nationalization, not by law, but by trickery. Private enterprise always will fail if it is unable to maintain reservoirs of capital to continue in business.

The best example of this trickery is the methods employed to force the railroads of the country into receivership. And unless something is done about it, many of the railroads, which stood up so magnificently during the war, will, like so much else, collapse during the peace. And the collapse is close at hand.

When Walter S. Franklin, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, largest in the country, can testify that his company faces the most serious financial situation in its 100-year history on account of an increase of more than 51 per cent for labor and 49 per cent for materials without an adequate increase in freight rates, the pattern of wreckage and destruction, of nationalization by trickery, becomes perfectly clear. This railroad does about 10 per cent of the railroad business of the country.

The railroad wage increases since January, 1946, amount to $913,000,000 and Mr. Franklin estimates that by Jan. 1, 1947, the increases will pass the billion dollar mark. In the year 1946 alone the Pennsylvania Railroad will be paying an increased wage and pay roll tax bill of $74,800,000. For the same year, the increase for material and supplies increase will be $16,000,000. This means that costs for 1946 must include a total increase of $90,800,000 forced upon the railroad by government decisions and against which there is no compensatory increase in rates.

THIS must please such a nationalizer as Sen. Taylor of Idaho, who has emerged from his crooner days to the left of Mr. Wallace and Sen. Pepper. He is now the most extreme left-winger in the Senate, which is his choice and must please his voters. What experience Sen. Taylor has had to justify his assumption of expertness is difficult to find in his record.

The last time I saw him in the flesh he was dressed like a Hollywood cowboy, carrying a banjo and when, in my astonishment, I asked my Boise hosts what the thing was, they nearly knocked me down by telling me that he was singing his way into the U. S. Senate.

Yet, it is such an aboriginal thinker on economic subjects who has to pass on government policies with regard to industry and railroads. Maybe Sen. Taylor has, in his wisdom, discovered the formula for nationalization through bankruptcy.

Here are some cold facts. Industrial material costs in July, 1946, were 62 per cent over 1941—and they are rising. Efficiency of production is down 20 per cent. The automotive industry lost 3.1 per cent per sales dollar for the first half of 1946, despite the carry-back and other tax credits.

The Pennsylvania Railroad shows a $27,000,000 deficit for the first seven months of 1946—and it is getting worse. All stock prices are falling and junior securities are being wiped out. Commodity prices are rising constantly and perilously.

Who is kidding whom about the state of the nation? When men like Mr. Wallace and Paul Porter and even secretary of the treasury, John Snyder, say they are for private enterprise, let them prove it.

As the matter stands, it is clear that they are doing everything they can to kill private enterprise in the hope that there is one election left in the alliance with the "Commies" of the PAC. To win an election, they risk nationalization, just as Republicans in 1932 held on to prohibition until they lost the country.

Set For Powwows

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON — Dr. Warren Kelchner, chirman of International conferences for the State Department, is happy that at last the government has a meeting place of its own in Washington.

In the first place, Dr. Kelchner figures that having a conference hall in the capital is more economical. What little cost was involved in the renovating of the 11th floor of an ancient building on Pennsylvania Ave., near the State Department, is saved in cutting expenses for transportation of secretaries, typewriters and so on to other cities.

The room is all fixed up modern-like, with indirect lighting, soundproofing and air-conditioning. Big windows with venetan binds are framed with soft, lime-colored drapes and deep velvety carpeting covers the floor.

The new conference room is all booked up for almost continuous powwowing the rest of the year.

Dr. Sarah Wambaugh is the only woman in the field of international plebiscites. Plebiscites are national votes to determine a ruler or a government.

When there is a prebiscite dispute in Latin America or Europe, governments turn to Dr. Wambaugh for advice. One of her most recent assignments was as special adviser to Dr. Henry F. Grady, chief of the United States mission to study elections in Greece.

There wasn't much material on prebiscites available when this tall, handsome woman began to get interested in perfecting the technique "to discourage conquest".

She was asked to write a book on international plebiscites as part of the Carnegie Endowment's contribution to the United States' State Department for the Paris peace conference.

In 1920, she compiled A Monograph on Plebiscites, With A Collection of Official Documents and as a result was asked to join the secretariat of the League of Nations for the administration of the Saar territory and the Free City of Danzig.,

In addition to this book, Dr. Wambaugh has written numerous other authoritative publications.

Born in Cincinnati, Dr. Wambaugh nevertheless calls Cambridge, Mass., home even though she hardly ever is there.

Tails Up, Mates!

By Truman Twill

IT'S NICE to know National Dog Week is being observed throughout the 48 states and America's offshore possessions. What better time could there be than this to make a few changes?

1.—Ban on the promise of the dog owner; "Don't be afraid. He won't hurt you." It is not a matter of fear, squarehead, but prudence. Dogs bite people every day, to the astonishment of owners who would have bet their last cent THEIR dog wouldn't bite.

2.—A universal rule that owners of dogs permitted to roam at large any time during the day or night must cause to be erected suitable signs, visible to the public, warning of the dog's presence. Thus, the public can arm itself against the eventualities that ensue and fill newspapers with notices of legal proceedings every day.

3.—An ironclad law that barking dogs shall be permitted 15 minutes of barking each day, either in one lump or divided into intermittent yappings and that thereafter it shall be the obligation of the responsible authorities to declare a nuisance, not of the dog, but any owner who causes a dog to be incarcerated in such a manner that barking is the result.

4.—Erection of single-strand electric fences bordering all streets and highways, same to be used to keep dogs from being killed under the wheels of automobiles. By presidential order, all dogs would be trained to respect these fences by being made to touch them with their damp noses, and if this proved successful the identical procedure would be used to save children.

5.—A quota on dog stories, limiting each owner to one preposterous lie a week, or two little lies. This would be for the advancement of dog stories, now being overdone so grievously no one believes even the true ones any more.

6.—A stiff regulation against submitting dogs to such unreasonable hazards as automobiles and airplane travel, on the premises that these risky actions are all right for adult human beings, who perform them knowing what may happen—but represent a cruel imposition on dumb animals with no opportunity to understand the perils of civilization.

7.—A national campaign of popular education to overcome the prevailing notion that every dog is teeming with rabies, which must be the inevitable result of each and every dog bite. This to be accompanied by simultaneous state drives to overcome popular fear of rabies with mass inoculations of the canine population as the indispensable requisite of licensing its members.

8.—A law to be passed repealing the irresistible cuteness of pups, which causes helpless human to give them food and shelter with no thought of the possibility the pups may develop into the sorriest specimens of doghood ever tolerated by sorry specimens of humanity, who ask nothing more flattering than to be tolerated by the dogs they love and work their fingers to the bone for, with never a word of thanks.

The Time Factor In War

By Joseph Alsop

WHEN there is danger—even remote danger—of war, it is necessary to give prayerful consideration to the time factor. What situation will usher in the crisis, and how long will it take for that situation to arise?

This is another of those questions which the men in Paris, who are debating peace and thinking of war, do not permit to creep into their public speeches. But it can be said on ample evidence that the question has not been banished from their minds.

The key to the time factor can be given in three words—the atom bomb. Atomic armaments are now of value to us, in blunt language, because they give us time in which to seek an understanding with the Soviet Union.

Until the Soviet Union is equipped with atomic armaments, war is unlikely. Although they largely have concealed it from their people, the Soviet leaders know the meaning of the bomb. At Potsdam, when the secret was disclosed to him, Premier Stalin dropped his guard and showed visible dismay for the first time in the history of the wartime meetings. Much more recently, Mr. Molotov is known to have admitted to certain of his non-Soviet confederates that the bomb gave the western powers "temporary" military superiority.

For the present, therefore, there will be crises. There will be thrusts to test our strength and firmness. There will be underground and indirect aggression. But there will be no final clash unless the Soviet leaders misjudge a situation and go too far to withdraw.

Eventually, however, the successful manufacture of atomic armaments will restore to the Soviet leaders the military confidence which they now lack. And if in the interval the West has not surrendered, and no understanding has been achieved between the West and the Soviet Union, war then will be almost certain. Then the military advantage will be all on the Soviet side.

This is something that it is vitally important to grasp. The quickest way to grasp it is by studying the British position. These reports have referred before to the official estimate of Britain's situation, prepared some months ago for the cabinet by the British chiefs of staff. Its known findings were: First, that the British Isles could not be defended successfully against atomic weapons; and second, that since the British Isles are indefensible, consideration should be given to transferring essential war manufactures to the dominions and colonies.

RECENTLY, a man well qualified to speak with authority put the point rather more vividly. He was discussing the strategic meaning of the long-range rockets that the Soviets have been showering over Scandinavia from centers in Germany.

These centers, incidentally, in themselves constitute a flagrant violation of a solemn treaty. He pointed out that the rockets already in use are capable of subjecting Britain to a hideous ordeal, comparable to what she would have had to withstand if Hitler had been ready to use his V-2's in mass in 1942 or 1943. "We are now the Malta of the next war," he remarked wryly. "And when an enemy can put atomic warheads into those rockets, I'm afraid we shall be the Pantelleria."

What Britain lacks, and what the Soviets have, is space. Space is vital, because dispersion is the only real defense against atomic weapons. In the United States, we too have space. What we lack, and what the Soviets have, is the kind of society which permits space to be used for defense.

Our essential industries—and our population—are concentrated heavily in our great urban centers. In the strategic studies prepared by our own Army general staff and approved by the joint chiefs of staff it is estimated that mass bombardment by long-range projectiles with atomic charges would kill or disable something like 40 per cent of our people.

It naturally would destroy a far higher proportion of our industrial potential. Next to the establishment of an enormous, costly and permanently alerted war machine, our first defensive measure would have to be re-planning our urban pattern to disperse population and industry. That would call for virtual abandonment of all our great cities. We could not conceivably take this and the other needed defensive steps without changing the very basis of our society. Freedom would have to go first.

It is no use attempting to forecast a future which is still mercifully distant, at least by a number of years. But it would be foolish not to take note that the Soviet offensive against Britain began only a few months after the close of World War II.

In the current phase, it is concentrated in the Middle East, and it is being waged with the weapons of political warfare and the warfare of nerves. Yet it is no less an offensive for all that, and no less clearly discloses future Soviet aims.

It also would be foolish to forget Brooks Atkinson's wise observation that Soviet policy is motivated by a passion for security, but that the Soviet leaders never will feel secure so long as the United States and Britain are dominant powers. If Soviet policy is already expansionist when Soviet military power is inferior, what will Soviet policy become when Soviet power passes that of the West?

IT IS a grim question. The experts are all but unanimous, however, that mass production of atomic armaments will be an effort of years for the war-ravaged, never complex industry of the Soviet Union. The time is not so short as many people suppose. Furthermore, if the atom bomb is like a time bomb, which must explode into war if it is not defused by realistic peacemaking, it is also the best hope of peace that we have.

This is true, not because the bomb is a threat, but because the simple act of internationalizing control of atomic energy will constitute a sort of permanent peace insurance. Previous systems of internationaly co-operation always have broken down because they have contained no element outside and above competing national sovereignties.

The atomic development authority proposed in the Baruch report will be precisely such an element, giving to the United Nations a special strength no league or federation in history ever has had. If Soviet policy really changes, the first sign will be acceptance of the Baruch report.

And if ever an atomic development authority is established and a measure of disarmament is agreed upon, the world can live without fear. It is toward that goal that the American policy-makers are plugging away patiently.

Meat Mess

By Paul Mallon

IT IS not difficult to find out what made the meat disappear. The farmers, according to my best farm experts, have started a practical boycott of the market as a result of the OPA price ceilings.

Some increased ceilings were allowed a few weeks back, but not enough to lure cattle or hogs into the market. Paul Porter's group operating OPA, increased cattle from $18 to $20.25 a hundred pounds, and moved hogs up from $14.85 to $16.25 a hundred.

Since then packing suppiles of meat have dwindled steadily until the cities have gotten around to horse meat, and the butchers' shelves are empty nearly everywhere.

The farmers simply are taking a gamble that prices will go higher. The feed situation is conducive to holding meat on the hoof. Excellent crops of corn and grain, and good pasture conditions, have afforded opportunities for feeding and fattening now to sell for a higher price later.

THIS may seem to the consumer to be a rather selfish arrangement, but the economic management which the government has built up over the last few years virtually has required the farmer to do what he is doing.

He sees inflationary prices all around him; strikes for tremendous increases in wages, running as high as 30 per cent.

Now the government, on the OPA side of the matter, has produced figures showing much fewer cattle than last year are going into the Midwest feed lots for fattening, and in other ways excuses itself and refuses to look the situation in the face.

Seeing the consumers' side of it alone in OPA, it has fixed ceilings for what it calls anti-inflationary purposes, wholly unmindful of the truth of the matter which is—the ceilings themselves have become purely theoretical and the meat cannot be obtained at any price.

The government is empowered to keep up this stalemate until OPA expires next June, but with the election coming on, its position is becoming more and more embarrassing every day. My guess would be that the White House considers it is being pressed closer and closer into a political predicament from which it will extricate itself in the usual—if not the normally intelligent—way by lifting the prices again.

SO AS I say, my guess is that perhaps a week or two before election, the price ceilings will be relaxed in order to get the farmer vote.

However, this does not seem to be to be even particularly reasonable politics, as Congress wanted to relax the OPA restraints considerably more in the beginning and Congress is the agency facing election this year, not Mr. Truman or his OPA. So while a further boost in prices would perhaps relieve the pressure on the White House, the majority of congressmen facing re-election (up to nearly two-thirds of their number) have a record more favorable to the farm viewpoint—and the obtaining of meat.

OVE PROVIDING AISER SODA ASH RAWS SCRUTINY

uminum Factory Obtained Scarce Material In Bid To Spur Competition

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 — A government order giving scarce soda ash to a Henry Kaiser aluminum plant came under a Senate committee's scrutiny yesterday amidst contentions it will curtail output of glass and other home-building materials.

Sen. Ferguson (R) of Michigan, who brought up the matter at surplus property hearings of the war investigating committee, said he was advised that one result will be closing of a glass plant in Toledo.

Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small, however, took the position that Congress had handed down a mandate to promote competition in the aluminum industry and that new firms should be helped in getting under way. In this, he was supported by Sen. Mead (D) of New York.

Advisers Consulted

Sen. Ferguson developed testimony from Mr. Small that a CPA order requiring deliveries of soda ash to the Kaiser aluminum plant in Louisiana was issued "two or three weeks ago".

Mr. Small said the soda ash industry advisory committee was consulted before the order was issued. Sen. Ferguson said the CPA called in the advisory committee and demanded that it give "a large amount to a certain manufacturer of aluminum in Louisiana, to wit, Mr. Kaiser".

"How much did you demand that it give him?" he asked Mr. Small.

"Only enough to operate the plant," Mr. Small replied.

Sen. Ferguson asked whether the committee advised that the glass and other industries turning out housing materials would be affected.

Questioning Continues

"They said," Mr. Small answered, "demand for soda ash was so great they would have to take it away from other customers."

Mr. Small replied, "Not necessarily," when Sen. Ferguson asked whether the aluminum was to be used in building houses.

The questioning went on:

"Didn't Kaiser want the aluminum for his automobile industry?" Sen. Ferguson asked.

"Part of it," Mr. Small replied.

To a question whether any government agency came to Mr. Kaiser's aid in seeking the order, Mr. Small replied he did not know but the "RFC might have".

"It was the RFC's plant," Mr. Small added, apparently meaning the RFC had sold the plant to Mr. Kaiser.

ICKES ASKS MEETING OF 'BIG THREE' SOON

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—Former Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes suggested today a meeting of President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Marshal Stalin as quickly as possible to "counsel with each other about the peace".

The Paris peace conference, he said, "sounds from this distance more like the early stages of a national political convention," adding:

"What we ought to have is a meeting, not of deputies, but of principals."

Mr. Ickes said he does not favor appeasing any country, including Russia. The United States, he declared, should "be patient in considering any views that Russia might put forth".

"However," he went on in an address prepared for the Conference of Progressives, "I am convinced that that segment of the liberal movement which, either wittingly or unwittingly, has assumed the burden of defending and justifying Russia's foreign policy should take a more impartial, American point of view."

BEVIN DECLARES 'WAR OF NERVES' MUST BE HALTED

Agrees With Stalin That No Further Fighting Looms In World At Present

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 28—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin agreed last night with Premier Stalin that "no further war is likely at present", but added that no peace is possible without an end to the present "war of nerves".

Mr. Bevin's terse statement came three days after Premier Stalin said the world is in no "real danger" of a new war—a pronouncement which gave hope to world weary of continuing disagreement between East and West and attacks and counterattacks by the Moscow radio and the western press.

The foreign secretary's statement was contained in a speech to a working class audience which elected him to parliament from the Wandsworth section of London.

Earlier yesterday British weekly publications called upon Mr. Bevin to outline the United Kingdom's foreign policy in the light of recent statements by Russian and American leaders and British Conservatives.

"We recently have had a statement from Russia that they do not anticipate a further war is likely at present," Mr. Bevin said in a speech. "I do not think so either and I do not know anybody who is asking for war."

Mr. Bevin added, however, that "there is one kind of war that must stop if we are to get peace—that is the war of nerves that has left some unfortunate countries in a state of disturbance.

WOMAN 'STOLEN' BY JILTED SUITOR

Sergeant's Wife Forced Out Of Bed At Point Of Gun

By The Associated Press.

FREEHOLD, N. J., Sept. 28—A former suitor whom she had jilted in order to marry an Army sergeant forced 26-year-old Mrs. Mary Kimmey from her bed beside her husband and kidnaped her at the point of a gun yesterday at their home at Little Silver, the husband told police.

"You're lucky. I only want your wife this time," the man told Sgt. Glynn F. Kimmey as Mrs. Kimmey was forced to dress, Sgt. Kimmey said.

A state police alarm listed the alleged kidnaper as Chalmers Laubaught and described him as an ex-convict recently paroled from a Washington jail.

The FBI was summoned to take charge of the investigation, but Samuel K. McKee, New Jersey chief of the bureau, said he could make no comment.

Sgt. Kimmey, from Huntsville, Tex., said the man had represented himself as an FBI agent investigating the Kimmeys in gaining entrance to the boarding house where the couple lived. Once upstairs, Sgt. Kimmey said, the man dropped this role and drew his .45 automatic, entering the Kimmey's room where they were asleep.

Sgt. Kimmey said the man had known his wife about seven years.

The state police alarm said the alleged kidnaper probably is headed for Washington with Mrs. Kimmey.

Protestant Ministers Ask Truman To Free 'CO's' Still In Prison

Three hundred leading ministers of the major Protestant denominations in the United States have addressed a letter to President Truman, asking that he extend amnesty to America's conscientious objectors to war, several hundred of whom still are in prison.

The letter, signed by many who are not themselves objectors, says:

"Sharing concern for religious liberty and freedom of conscience, we are troubled by the fact that 1,500 of the 6,000 conscientious objectors sentenced under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 still are confined in federal prisons.

"A majority of these men are Jehovah's Witnesses, who have claimed that their exangelistic activities entitled them to exemption from the draft as ministers. There are also scores of war objectors who have been court martialed by the armed forces for refusal to obey military orders which violated their conscientious scruples.

"The objectors who have completed their sentences or have been paroled still are penalized by the loss of important civil rights . . . It is surely regrettable that, here in the United States, men whose only crime has been fidelity to conscience should continue to be punished."

REPAIRS TO BE MADE ON EPISCOPAL ORGAN

Alice In Wonderland

Here's How American Girl Looks At Berlin

By KATHLEEN KASISCHKE

BERLIN, Sept. 28 — When Mama and I came here to join Daddy Aug. 1 and moved into a house in the suburb of Zehlendorf, it seemed at first as if we hadn't left America. Our block looked like almost any other suburban block in America—nearly.

But after a while I felt something like Alice after she stepped through the looking glass. There were many strange things. When I walked a little way down the street I saw a house with only one wall standing. They told me it was bombed. Near the wall was what at first seemed to be a brown flag on a pole, but when you look again you see that it is a third-story radiator on its pipe.

Lots of other things come strange like that. I can't imagine Detroit's downtown buildings smashed like Berlin's. In the suburbs here we see shell marks on houses. Detroit had lots of cars, but we see mostly jeeps here.

I now am going to summer play school while they are getting the regular winter school ready I go afternoons with nearly 80 other children aged 6 to 14. Army trucks used for school busses pick us up at our street corners.

In our school are several Chinese children, some Polish, Danish and Czechoslovakian children. Some of these children can speak German but not English but we are teaching them lots of words on the bus. The Chinese boy's father is a general, but he does not "pull rank" like the American boy whose father is a colonel does on Jimmy, whose father is only a lieutenant.

I've been playing with some German children in the neighborhood but not much until I can learn to talk German and understand them. We are learning some in school and also may be taught some Russian later.

After school hours I sometimes go shopping with Mama, but we don't call it a grocery store, but a "commissary" set up by the Army. There isn't much fresh milk here, but I get chocolate bars and chewing gum, not from the drugstore but from the Army post exchange. They have no bubble gum. However, the Army has some ice cream soda bars here that we visit.

For my birthday three weeks ago the officer at the Press Club gave me a party and some pretty German dolls. The orchestra played and I met the former Prince Wilhelm and his princess, Auguste Victoria. She sang two songs for me and everyone stopped to listen to her.

NEW X-RAY DETECTIVE SPOTS SPURIOUS COINS

By The Associated Press.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—A new-type X-ray machine which can detect phony coins, spurious diamonds and certain impurities in other substances has been developed by the General Electric Co.

The X-ray photomoter shoots a ray through the material under test, measures the amount of ray absorbed and compares the absorption with that which is known for the genuine article.

In most tests, aluminum discs of varying thickness which have a ray absorption equal to that for the known item, are used as proxies.

EX-CHAPLAIN TO LEAD WELLSVILLE SERVICE

Rev. John B. Little, former Navy chaplain and now pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg, Pa., will preach Sunday morning in the First Presbyterian Church of Wellsville.

Miss Lois Jean Frederick of Wellsville, and Irving Barnes of Beaver will be soloists. Sunday School will be held at 10 a. m., but there will be no night service.

A reception for Rev. S. Wilmer Beitler, who will conclude his pastorate Oct. 6, will be held Wednesday night at 8. Worldwide Communion will be celebrated at Dr. Beitler's last service.

Rev. Beitler, who notified the congregation six months age he planned to retire, came to the pulpit over four years ago from Butler, Pa., where he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

He is leaving the ministry and will retire to Erie, Pa., where he has purchased a home. He had planned on retiring this month but agreed to remain for the World-wide Communion observance.

BUCKS FAVORED OVER MISSOURI

Open 56th Grid Grind Under 12th Coach At Columbus

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28 — Ohio State University's football team opens the school's 56th gridiron season today seeking its 305th victory at the expense of the University of Missouri Tigers.

And the Bucks, who have won 304, lost 128 and tied 30 against 462 opponents over that span of years, are odds-on favorites to dump Missouri for the sixth straight time in a rivalry that began back in 1939.

The Bucks figure to be too fast, too big and too good for Missouri, especially after that 42-to-0 trouncing the Tigers suffered last week at the hands of the University of Texas Longhorns.

Ohio outweighs Missouri 197 to 191 pounds, and Buckeye scouts, who claim Texas' superior speed swamped the Tigers, say the Bucks are "as fast, if not faster," than the Texans.

Coach Don Faurot's Missourians will have six all-Big Six conference choices in the starting lineup, but the Bucks have back from war service 11 former championship performers—six from the 1942 National and Big Ten championship eleven and five more from the 1944 Western Conference winners.

A crowd of more than 65,000 is expected. The Bucks packed 72,948 in for the opening game against New York University in 1936.

Ohio State will be introducing its 12th gridiron coach—Paul O. Bixler, a former assistant who traded jobs with Former Head Coach Carroll Widdoes earlier this year.

The probable lineups:

CLEVELAND'S BROWNS FAVORED OVER YANKS

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28 — Fresh from three victories, the Cleveland Browns were strong favorites today to win tomorrow's All-American Conference battle with the New York Yankees.

The Yankees, who have defeated San Francisco and Buffalo and tied Chicago, will be without the services of Clarence "Ace" Parker, who has been alternating in the backfield with Orban "Spec" Sanders, leading ground gainer of the league.

The former Duke star is suffering from three broken vertebrae and was left behind in New York.

Coach Ray Flaherty of the Yankees said his team is "potentially" the greatest he ever had coached, but said it has been weakened by injuries.

Chapman A Rebel

Notre Dame-Illinois Headlines Today's College Grid Program

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—With such standout attractions as Notre Dame-Illinois, Army-Oklahoma, Indiana-Michigan and California-Wisconsin, today's college football menu offers virtually all of the major teams in action.

With the 1946 grid campaign still competing with baseball for the fans' attention, this late-September afternoon promises to see the autumn sport well on its way to some new attendance records.

President Truman takes time from the cares of his office to head an anticipated crowd of 25,000 that will see Army dig in to repel a West Point invasion by Oklahoma's Sooners in what may well be the first test since the Cadets were beaten by Navy in 1943.

But easily the No. 1 game in the nation is the clash between Illinois and Notre Dame at Champaign, Ill., where a capacity crowd of 70,000 is expected. The Irish, reputedly loaded to the gunwales with talent, come up against a club that is not exactly short of material in a contest that pits two potential national champions.

Michigan, a Big Nine favorite along with Illinois and Ohio State, takes on last year's champion, Indiana, chastened by last Saturday's defeat by little Cincinnati. Iowa is paired with Purdue in another Big Nine feature.

In addition to Oklahoma meeting Army, Big Six teams engage in some pretty important conference play, with Missouri engaging Ohio State, Nebraska tangling with Minnesota and Iowa State up against Northwestern.

Wisconsin, which shellacked Marquette last week, goes to Berkley to try Frank Wickhorst's first California product.

Out-Of-State Teams Blank 3 Buckeye Elevens

By The Associated Press.

Out-of-state teams handed whitewash whippings to three Buckeye college elevens Friday night, and in two Ohio Conference openers the losers also were blanked.

Central Michigan College avenged its only 1945 defeat by upsetting Bowling Green, 7-0, at Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and Cedarville, playing its second game in 14 years, was thumped, 45-0, at Georgetown (Ky.) College.

West Virginia Tech invaded Marietta to hand a 21-to-0 defeat on the Marietta Pioneers, playing their first game for Coach Len Barnum.

In the Ohio Conference, Heidelberg scored in the third period at Tiffin to take its season opener from Ashland, 7-0; and at Alliance the Mount Union Raiders passed their way to a 12-to-0 victory over the Findlay College Oilers.

Jock Of All Trades

BUENOS AIRES—Ireneo Leguisamo, Argentina's ace jockey for the last 15 years, didn't waste the day he was suspended for rough riding—he won a golf tournament.

ZAHARIAS, SHERMAN VIE IN GOLF FINALS

By The Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 28 — Mrs. Babe Didrickson Zaharias of Denver, Colo., non-pariel of America's women athletes—met slender Mrs. Clara Sherman of Pasadena, Calif. in a 36-hole duel today for the 46th National Women's Amateur Golf championship.

The finals, first since 1941, pairs the survivors of a starting field of 59 which started to play five days ago over Southern Hills Country Club's 6,232-yard course.

The erratic but brilliant Mrs. Zaharias, regarded as the longest woman hitter in the game, earned her bid by turning back determined Helen Sigel of Philadelphia, 3 and 2, in a close duel, as Mrs. Sherman breezed past Mrs. Betty Mins White of Dallas, Texas, 8 and 7.

POTTERS GIVE VISITORS SCARE BEFORE BOWING

By BOB SHAFFER, The Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool's valiant Potters threw a scare into unbeaten Alliance at Patterson Field Friday night before the air-minded Aviators unleashed a destructive aerial bombardment that sent the Blue and White eleven down to its second straight defeat of the season, 25-16, in a thrill-packed struggle before a record-shattering throng of 8,467 paid customers.

It was the second reverse for the Potters in three starts, but it was the third straight success for the Flyers from Stark county as they continued down the undefeated trail midst the thunderous cheering from more than 1,200 followers who made the trek here via special train.

Game Packed With Thrills

For electrifying plays the battle surpassed by far any grid tussle that has been witnessed in the Potter Park for several seasons, and the vaunted Aviators, heavily favored after rolling up 90 points while holding their first two foes scoreless, departed the winner but deeply conscious they had been in a battle the likes of which they won't experience many more times this year.

The Potters actually out-rushed the Aviators, emerging on the long end of the ground-gaining figures, 170 to 127.

But the Blue and White, rebounding with general all-round improvement from the Steubenville debacle, exposed a vulnerable secondary when Dick McFall and Paul Varley cocked their arms for aerials.

Score Three On Passes

Three of the four Alliance touchdown came as a result of well-executed overhead maneuvers. Between McFall and Varley they fired 12 aerials and seven connected to Mike and Al Maccioli, a pair of glue-fingered brothers who worked at the terminals, for 133 yards. The Potters hit once in six tries for 12 yards. Alliance moved the sticks 10 times to lead Liverpool's six in first downs.

After the Flyers had struck through the air lanes for their first score midway in the first period, a McFall to Mike Maccillo from nine yards out, little "Chink" Sullivan, the Potters' sophomore bolt of dynamite, snared a lateral from Quarterback Don Wolfe and streaked 79 yards over the Alliance goal to tie the score, 6-6, as the Liverpool fans rocked the stands.

Rudy Trbovich, the 225-pound tackle with the educated toe, missed his try for the point that would have sent the Potters ahead, but he returned to the scene early in the second period to boot a 22-yard field goal that gave Liverpool a 9-to-6 lead and had the Aviators shaking in their shoes.

Russ Recovers Fumble

With time in the first half running out, however, the invaders got a break when Don "Bulldog" Jackson, playing his first game at fullback for almost two years, fumbled on the Liverpool 42 and the opposing line bucker, Dean Russ, recovered. On the first play, Varley faded back and lofted a long heave to Mike Maccioli on the 10 and he ran over without a hand touching him. He placekicked the extra point that gave the Aviators the upper hand, 13-9, where they remained.

Liverpool received the second half kickoff but Trbovich was forced to punt, Varley returning three yards to the Alliance 48. Left Half George Balogh ripped center for a 17-yard jaunt to the 34 on the second play and Strait went to the 29 through guard.

The Potters stiffened here, but on fourth down and eight for the first down, McFall threw another strike to Mike Maccioli more than good for the necessary yardage to the 11. On the third play of the new series, Dick Strait bolted through the middle on a quick-opening play from the "T" for the third Alliance TD. Maccioli's try from placement was blocked but Alliance led, 19-9. Straits dash was the only score made through the Potter forwards.

Potters' First Sustained Drive

Trbovich received Maccioli's poor kickoff at midfield and charged back to Alliance 45 and the Potters, exploding with their first sustained drive of the season, went the distance in eight plays, Don Brooks bolting through a hole in the right side of the Aviator line and rambling 18 yards to score standing up. Trbovich converted and Liverpool trailed only three points, 19-16. Liverpool fans still sensed an upset.

Alliance roared back on the next kickoff but the stout Potter forward wall staged a typical Liverpool goal-line stand to stop the visitors on the six after a first down had been reeled off on that yard line. Balogh had chased the kickoff back 44 yards to the Potter 46 and in two cracks at the line Russ drove to the six, getting loose for jaunts of 28 and 12.

As the final period opened Russ got two but then was stopped in his tracks by the center of the Blue and White line. On fourth and two Strait was tossed for a four-yard loss.

Potter Attack Checked

Liverpool's attack failed to click and Chuck Williams punted to Varley on the Potter 46 and he chased back 13 yards to the 33. Alliance's running attack was checked also and Strait punted over the goal.

Sullivan picked up four and Brooks made it a first down on the 30, but the ball squirted out of Jackson's arm on the next play and the alert Russ again pounced on it on the 34. Russ and Strait drove to the 21 and then Varley rifled a pass to Al Maccioli who was dropped on the 10. Strait and Russ again lugged it to the three.

On fourth and three for the score Varley passed to Al Maccioli who took it in the end zone to make the final tally, 26-16. The pass from center was low, but Maccioli picked up the loose ball and was run out of bounds on the one in his attempt for the 27th point.

Starting a revamped lineup, showing George Knott at left end, Charles "Chuck" McKeever at center, both making their debuts as first-stringers, and Jackson at fullback, Coach Roy Hodge had reason to be proud of his Blue and White Warriors who were out-played (through the air) but weren't outfought by the veteran Aviators.

Jackson, Wolfe Add Punch

Jackson added punch to the attack and again played a smashing defensive game. Wolfe at quarter displayed signs of assisting with the ball-carrying, while Sullivan and Brooks helped eat up the 170 yards that overshadowed the highly-touted Alliance pigskin toters.

The defense against running plays spoke for itself, giving up only one touchdown and staging a brilliant goal-line stand as it stopped the hard-hitting Aviator backs when pay dirt neared.

McKeever turned in a smashing defensive game as did Bill Coburn, sub for Jerry Hyder at end, with Tommy Bell, Bob Blatchford, Dale Doland and Trbovich all in the battle up to their eyebrows.

Outstanding for the Aviators, of course, were the Maccioli brothers, McFall, Varley, Russ, Balogh and Strait on the offense and Bruce Cobbs, guard, and Roger Plum at center the defensive giants.

Cards And Dodgers Deadlocked; Playoff Probable

Cubs Down Birds; Each Team Has Just 2 Left

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first major league post season playoff to decide a pennant loomed today as the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers headed into the final week end, deadlocked for first place in the National League.

The co-leaders, with identical won and lost records, have only two games left to play. The Cards wind up the season with the Chicago Cubs tonight and tomorrow afternoon at Sportsman's Park, and the Dodgers clash twice with Boston's Braves at Ebbets Field.

Cubs Beat Cards, 7-2

Chicago's Cubs, themselves in a battle with the Braves for third place, shoved the Red Birds into a first place tie with the idle Brooks last night with a 7-to-2 victory.

Hank Borowy repeated his Sunday win over the Cards—hanging up his 12th victory although he was forced to retire in the eighth inning because of a blister on his pitching hand.

In the American League, Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians' great righthander, struck out six Detroit batsmen in a five inning relief stint to tie Rube Waddell's listed major league record of 343 strikeouts in a single season. A recent research, however, revealed that Waddell in 1904 actually fanned 349—more than the official record credits him with.

Red Sox Down Nats

Tex Hughson staggered through to his 20th victory as the Boston Red Sox downed the Washington Senators, 5-4.

The Chicago White Sox moved to within a half game of the fourth place Senators by taking both ends of a twin bill from the St. Louis Browns, 7-3 and 8-3.

In the only other National League game, the Cincinnati Reds, behind the five-hit pitching of Joe Beggs, shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-0.

Leetonia's Bears dropped their second game of the season, losing to McDonald, 12-7, on the Bears' field while Salineville, beaten in its first two starts, finally hit the victory trail with a 34-to-21 win over New Waterford as Fairfield was routed by North Jackson, 47-12, in the first setback for the Comets.

The Bulldogs capitalized on the first break of the game. On the second play after the kickoff a Quaker fumble was recovered by the Bulldogs at midfield and in six plays the Brown and White had its first touchdown. On fourth Fullback Joe Nolan passed to Halfback Harry McGahan for the score. Nolan placekicked the extra point and Palestine led, 7-0.

Shortly afterward, End George Libert of the Bulldogs was thrown for a safety by Tackle Tony Martinelli, but Palestine came back in the second period to score again, triple-lateral-pass, Blair to McGahan to Stewart to Libert covered 16 yards for the TD.

Salem scored its only touchdown in the third on a drive of 47 yards, a pair of subs, Tom Miner and Jim Jenson clicking on a 26-yard aerial.

Palestine was on Salem's two-yard line as the game ended.

The Bulldogs reeled off seven first downs to six, but the game was marred with numerous penalties, 155 yards being stepped off against the two teams.

The Bears blew a chance to pull the game out of the fire in the last four minutes of play when Sullivan dropped Sam Stumpo's 47-yard pass as he stood on the McDonald goal line.

A 35-yard aerial Gardner to Wilkes, netted the invaders their first touchdown in the second period and Grant's 51-yard scamper was good for the second and winning points.

Leetonia paraded 47 yards in the fourth quarter, Al Stumpo going over from the two to climax the march. He passed to Sullivan for the extra point.

ZALE FLATTENS GRAZIANO IN 6TH

Tony Takes Beating Before Retaining Championship

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 — Tony Zale of Gary, Ind. still is the middleweight fighting champion, even though they had to prop the old gaffer up and lead him around very carefully as he waved to the audience after his knockout of Rocky Graziano last night in Yankee Stadium.

Tony, the victor, looked like a man who had been in hand-to-hand combat with a buzzsaw.

Up to the instant that Tony, a tired 32-year-old, landed the left hook that deposited Graziano for the count of 10 midway of the sixth round, most of the crowd banked in the Yankee ballyard would have bet their chance at a sirloin that the years were ready to take their toll and that the 160-pound crown was about to change hands.

Graziano, the rough, tough, right-hand-crazy kid from New York's East Side, had won three of the first five rounds. Zale looked spent as they came together at the start of the sixth.

And then, suddenly, as they stood and slugged, with Graziano's multitude of admirers yelling for the 24-year-old sensation to finish it, Zale brought up what must have been about the last shot in his locker. It connected with Rocky's jaw, and Rocky hit the floor like a ton of brick.

MINDER RUNS 97 YARDS FOR ONE BENGAL SCORE

By BYRON EELLS, Review Staff Writer

Scoring on the first play from scrimmage, a Canton Timken eleven that had been held scoreless in two previous contests uncovered a powerful running attack to roll over Wellsville's Bengals for its first win of the season, 32-13, before an estimated attendance of 4,000 Friday night at Nicholson stadium. It was Wellsville's second loss in three starts.

Long runs featured the game highlighted by George Minder's 97-yard run through the Canton team in the final minute of play. Minder also scored the other Wellsville marker on a short pass from Tommy Piatt in the second quarter.

Chuck Neago was the Trojans' big gun scoring on runs of 59 and 61 yards. Ernie Fuchs and Jim Colceri tallied on runs of 42 and 22 yards each.

Bengals Outweighed

Outweighed about 15 pounds to a man, the Bengals were unable to cope with the off tackle thrusts and end sweeps of the Canton backfield. However, Timken thrusts at the center of the Wellsville line were repeatedly stopped.

At the same time, Coach Mearle Atkins' gridders were unable to gain through the big, rangy Timken line. Nor were the Bengal passers able to hit receivers with any consistency.

Wellsville got off to a bad start on the first play from scrimmage. Colceri ran the kickoff back to the Timken 41 from where Neago ripped off tackle for 59 yards and a touchdown. Watson's kick was good to run the score to 7-0 in the first minute. The teams battled on even terms throughout the rest of the quarter.

Fuchs Races 42 Yards

In the second quarter, after pass interference had been ruled giving Wellsville a first down on their own 45-yard marker, Piatt's pass was intercepted by Landers, who ran it back to the 50. Lou Williams picked up eight then Fuchs, on another spinner off tackle, rambled 42 yards to hit pay dirt. Watson converted again to make the score 14-0.

The Bengals capitalized on their only break for their first score. About midway in the quarter, Piatt quick-kicked from his own 27 to the Timken 18. Timken picked up three yards and an offside penalty brought the ball to the 26. Timken was then penalized 15 yards for clipping, putting the ball on their own 11. Neago dropped back to kick but Byron Carter smothered him on the three before he got the ball away.

Using the same play which brought victory over Youngstown North last week, Wellsville went into a spread formation. Piatt hit Minder on his third attempt for the touchdown. Bill Morgan's pass to Rex Brown was good for the extra point making the score 14-7.

Duplicating his first play, Neago broke off tackle again behind beautiful blocking to hot foot it down the sidelines 61 yards for another marker after the kickoff. Watson's attempted conversion was blocked to bring the score at the half, 20-7.

Williams Scores From One

In the third quarter, Bill Rish's kick to the Wellsville 45 was brought back to the 39. Fuchs then picked up 24 yards to the 15. Neago swept end and was brought down on the 1-foot line. Williams punched over for the score. Watson's kick was low but Timken led, 26-7.

The final Trojan score was the result of a partially-blocked kick which traveled 15 yards to the Bengal 30. Colceri on a quarterback sneak went to the 23. He was stopped for a yard gain but swept end on the next play for 22 yards and the final counter.

In the final quarter, after Piatt's kick was downed on the Timken eight yard stripe, Russ Jones' gridders marched to the Wellsville three only to lose the ball on a fumble. Minder then swept right end, was momentarily stopped on the 15, but broke away and outraced the Canton team for the final score. Piatt was smothered when he fumbled trying to pass for the extra point.

Know East Liverpool's . . . Honorably Discharged Veterans

America's might was swelling to full tide in both the Pacific and Europe when James R. Ross, 533 Riverside Ave., Wellsville, entered the Navy Feb. 15, 1944, and started his basic training at the Great Lakes (Ill.) naval center.

By the time he went overseas in September, 1944, MacArthur was about ready to return to the Philippines and the Allies were on the offensive all around the world.

Seaman Ross remained abroad 15 months, long enough to see first Germany and then Japan surrender unconditionally. He returned to the States early in December, 1945, to be mustered out.

Married and the father of two daughters, he now is employed as manager of Harmony House at 319 Market St.

'IDYL' OF SOUTH SEAS NOW DREAM OF PAST

By The United Press.

CINCINNATI — That South Sea island paradise of the nineteenth-century romanticists is gone, says Dr. John Wesley Coulter, University of Cincinnati professor of geography and authority on the Pacific islands.

Sweeping changes brought about by World War II are described by Dr. Coulter in the American Geographical Society's Geographical Review.

Although South Sea islanders have been influenced by Europeans and Americans for 150 years, the recent war in five years changed them more than in all times before, he points out.

"Whole villages were removed to make way for airplane fields and hangars," Dr. Coulter writes. "The economic life of the natives was transformed by an unprecedented influx of money which G. I.'s generously paid out for souvenirs, laundry, and coconuts.

"Thousands of natives were recruited for labor battalions and received wages far above anything they had ever earned before. Natives trained as commandoes will not be content to fit themselves into the composure of village life under chiefs who stayed at home."

Once In A Lifetime

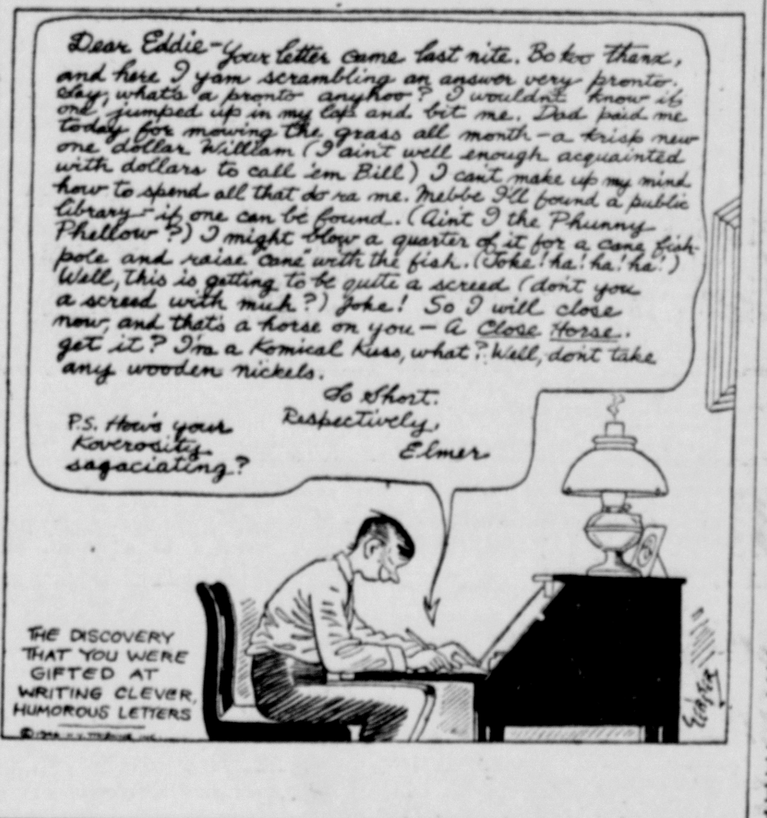
By Webster



Dear Eddie— Your letter came last nite. Bokoo thanx, and here I yam scrambling an answer very pronto. Say, what's a pronto anyhoo? I wouldn't know if one jumped up in my lap and bit me. Dad paid me today for mowing the grass all month—a krisp new one dollar William (I ain't well enough acquainted with dollars to call 'em Bill) I can't make up my mind how to spend all that do-ra-me. Mebbe I'll found a public library—if one can be found. (Ain't I the Phunny Phellow?) I might blow a quarter of it for a cane fish-pole and raise "cane" with the fish. (Joke! ha! ha! ha!) Well, this is getting to be quite a screed (don't you a screed with muh?) Joke! So I will close now, and that's a horse on you—a Close Horse. get it? I'm a Komical Kuss, what? Well, dont take any wooden nickels.
So Short. Respectively, Elmer
P.S. How's your Koverosity sagaciating?

VENGEANCE SNIPER. Stanislaw Ballon, Polish outlaw, is shown in the Wetzlar, Germany, military government jail after his capture by U. S. troops during a raid on a Polish displaced persons camp. Ballon is suspected of killing 43 Germans in accordance with a vow he made to kill 50 in vengeance for the killing of his parents and three brothers in Poland by the Nazis. It is said he also had some United States officers on his to-be-killed list.

Greece Is Flaming Match In Powder Plant

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

Mr. Mackenzie

THE return of King George of Greece from exile to his strife-torn kingdom may provide the test of exactly how much give-and-take there is between Russia and Britain in their battle for zones of influence — a conflict in which America also has interests to safeguard. Greece long has been John Bull's key outpost on the edge of the Balkan peninsula. This hardy little state — whose topograhpy is more perpendicular than horizontal—sticks into the side of the Balkans like a plum in a pudding. All the rest of the peninsula, excepting European Turkey, is solidly within Russia's new zone of influence. Strategic Greece, therefore, becomes a mighty atom in the Russo-British maneuvering for position and right now it is a flaming match in a powder plant.

The question is whether Moscow will concede John Bull his place in Greece or will insist on including it within Russia's sphere. There we have in miniature the momentous problem which has divided all Europe into two camps. How far does Russia intend to go in its expansion?

He knows the answer to that also knows whether another world war is likely.

But to return to our muttons. Greece is in the throes of civil war between supporters of the British-backed king and leftist elements, including many Communists. The main fighting is in the north among the mountains along the Albanian and Yugoslav borders. The royalist Greek government charges that Communistic elements from Albanian and Yugoslavia are the mainspring of the revolt.

The leftist retort to this is that Britain is maintaining a large military force in Greece and that the recent plebiscite which recalled King George was dominated by British influence. John Bull merely shrugs his shoulders and says that his troops are there at the invitation of the Greek government.

And a foreign office official in London has said guardedly that British forces wouldn't be used unless the Greek government specifically requested aid and that the troops could be called upon to act only "in a last resort".

THE sum and substance of all this, of course, is that the Balkan peninsula is the school yard and Russia and Britain are two brawny lads who are eying each other across a line which has been drawn between them. If one of them should step across that line, the fight would be on.

The trouble with this illustration is that a battle in a school yard would be with fists. An armed clash between Russia and Britain would mean another global conflict, which would make previous world wars look indeed like school-yard combat.

The return of King George to his throne certainly isn't likely to ease the situation. It really means that consolidation of the royalist forces to carry on the battle against the Red attempt to overthrow the monarchy.

The immediate threat is that the civil war might develop into hostilities between Greece and the Yugoslav-Albanian leftists governments. One need not dilate on such a contingency to demonstrate the terrific threat which it would establish to world peace.

Could Britain and Russia keep themselves clear of such a Balkan upheaval? Well, we can be sure that neither of them wants war, and that both would try to avoid it at all costs. Their degree of success would depend largely on the amount of give-and-take between them — mostly give — and their ability to keep their fiery Balkan followers in hand.

As for King George himself, it remains to be learned what, if any, influence he will have on the crisis. Thus far in his career he hasn't taken a place among the super-men. Still, one notes that when he left England for Greece he was in military uniform—battle dress—and was wearing the mein of a man who meant business. We shall see.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28—Approximately 57 per cent of the World War II veterans in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky have permitted their G.I. insurance to lapse, it was indicated today in a spot check survey by the Veterans Administration.

In Kentucky, 62.7 per cent of the veterans dropped their policies. The figure was 55.4 per cent in Michigan and 54.8 per cent in Ohio.

The VA said veterans in the area have a potential insurance value of more than 14 billion dollars awaiting them.

JAP MINES ENDANGER WEST COAST SHIPPING

By The United Press.

SAN DIEGO—Unrecovered Japanese mines will constitute a menace to west coast shipping for several more years, according to the United States Coast Guard.

The cutter Perseus recently sank a mine, found floating in the ocean 45 miles south of here. Coast guardsmen said there are about 40,000 Japanese mines unaccounted for and that when a mine breaks loose along the Japanese coast line, the current automatically carries it this way.

Witnesses said a flagman from the freight train, which was being switched into a siding, ran down the track 300 feet, but was unable to halt the oncoming passenger car.

The front of the car was crushed and the coupling of the coal car on the end of the freight train penetrated four feet deep.

The passenger car was equipped with shatterproof glass, reducing the injury toll.

SKUNK STEAKS TASTY, GAME MAGAZINE SAYS

By The United Press.

DETROIT — The Michigan Conservation Magazine reports that skunk meat is good to eat, although few converts have been made because of plain human prejudice.

"The skunk always has been eaten by Indians and by backwoods trappers," the magazine said. "The meat is white, tender and sweet. However, it must be carefully prepared to avoid taint from the scent glands."

The magazine concludes that it is unlikely that skunk steaks ever will be listed on the menus of famous restaurants.
